Important: This is a fictional, synthetic document created only for software development, RAG testing, demonstrations, and training. It is not a real insurance contract.

1. Policy Overview

LifeShield is a sample term life insurance plan. The policy provides a death benefit of INR 50,00,000 when the life insured dies during the active policy term, subject to policy terms and exclusions.

The sample policy term is 20 years and premiums are payable annually.

2. Death Benefit

If the life insured dies while the policy is active, the applicable death benefit is paid to the valid nominee or legal beneficiary after acceptance of the claim.

This sample term plan does not provide a maturity benefit if the insured survives until the end of the policy term.

3. Premium and Grace Period

The annual premium is due on the policy anniversary date. A grace period of 30 days is allowed for annual premium payments.

If the premium remains unpaid after the grace period, the policy may lapse and insurance coverage may cease according to the policy conditions.

4. Nomination

The policyholder may nominate one or more persons to receive policy benefits. A nomination may be updated during the policy term by submitting a valid nomination request.

The insurer should be informed when nominee details change so that claim processing is not delayed.

5. Suicide Exclusion

If death due to suicide occurs within 12 months from the policy commencement date or an applicable revival date, the benefit will be handled according to the suicide provision stated in this sample policy rather than the standard death benefit.

No other exclusion should be inferred unless it is expressly stated in this document.

6. Claim Documentation

The claimant should provide a completed death claim form, death certificate, policy details, claimant identity and bank details, and any additional documents reasonably required to assess the claim.

Claim submission does not itself guarantee approval. The insurer assesses the claim against the policy terms.
